IN LOVING MEMORY OF ANTHONY V. MARINO

YOU'VE ALWAYS BEEN OUR HALL OF FAMER

Welcome to the 28th International Maritime Hall of Fame Awards

As we move beyond the COVID 19 pandemic and into a new normal, it pleases me to see the overwhelming support of the maritime and transportation communities for the International Maritime Hall of Fame inductees and the Maritime Association of the Port of New York & New Jersey. This collaboration and partnership to continue the movement of cargo in and out of the United States is inspiring. Our community has met issues head on and developed new ways of working together. When the world halted, the supply chain pushed forward in part due to the leadership and vision of the inductees in this year's International Maritime Hall of Fame. We honor these individuals for their contributions and thank them for their ongoing innovation to develop a new international transportation normal for today and the future.

In 1993, the Board of the Maritime Association of the Port of New York & New Jersey created the International Maritime Hall of Fame to honor those visionaries who, through excellence in their company, organization, or services, best exemplify the qualities of forward thinking that guide our industry now and in the future.

This year the following areas were considered for persons with significant accomplishments: international container carrier, international vessel operator, terminal operator, non-container steamship carrier (bulk, liquid, or oil), ocean transportation intermediary, cruise industry, stevedore, cargo handling, port logistics, maritime negotiations and labor, Class I railways and supply chain collaboration.

The Ship's Lookout Statue is presented to people who are true transportation visionaries. Funds raised from the Awards event promote advocacy and educational awareness for the industry.

This year, the International Maritime Hall of Fame inducts six outstanding leaders:

Gary Cross

President and Chief Executive Officer, Maher Terminals LLC

Michael J. DiVirgilio

Principal, Michael J. DiVirgilio & Associates

Roger Guenther

Executive Director, Port Houston

Anthony V. Marino (posthumous)

Executive Vice President, The Marino Group

Vincent J. Marino

President and Chief Executive Officer, The Marino Group

John A. Witte, Jr.

President and Chief Executive Officer, Donjon Marine Co., Inc.

Please join us in honoring tonight's inductees and thank them for keeping America's maritime and transportation sectors strong and the supply chain competitive.

Joe Hughes has been Chairman and CEO of Shipowners Claims Bureau, Inc. (SCB), the New York-based manager of the American P&I Club, for nearly 27 years. He joined SCB in 1995 from London where he was chairman of global marine at Jardine Insurance Brokers, a major Lloyd's intermediary.

A Liverpool-born Welshman – and now a US citizen – Joe graduated in law from Balliol College, Oxford and was thereafter called to the Bar of England and Wales, serving his pupillage in a leading barristers' chambers specializing in maritime law. Joe began his marine insurance career at the Steamship Mutual P&I club in 1977, and subsequently worked for the Gard club in both Norway and London before joining Jardine's.

Since Joe's arrival at SCB, the American Club has emerged as a full-service insurance provider, offering P&I, hull and related lines of cover, with a presence throughout the world.

A former president of the Maritime Association of the Port of New York and New Jersey, Joe continues to serve on its board. He is the current chairman of the North American Marine Environment Protection Association (NAMEPA) and chairman of its international coordinating body, INTERMEPA. A former chairman of the Association of Average Adjusters of the United States, Joe also serves on the board of both the American Club and its Cyprus-based subsidiary,

CADDELL DRY DOCK AND REPAIR CO., INC.

Gary Cross

President and Chief Executive Officer Maher Terminals LLC

Gary began his career at Maher Terminals in 1978 in the company's safety department. From the safety department, he moved into the operations division of the company where he spent the next 17 years. After rising through the ranks in operations, Gary was promoted to Vice President and General Manager of the Tripoli Street Terminal in 1994. Soon after, he moved into the sales and marketing department in 1996 as Vice President and was made Senior Vice President in 2004. In 2009, he was promoted to the position of Executive Vice President, and in April 2013, was appointed President & CEO of Maher Terminals and Maher Terminals Holding Corp., the marine terminal that Maher developed in Prince Rupert, British Columbia.

Maher Terminals operates the largest privately held marine terminal in North America, loading and unloading 2 million containers annually for its long-standing shipping line customers, while employing nearly 1,500 International Longshoremen's Association members and management staff. Having been born and raised in Newark, Gary's philosophy that the company must be good neighbors to the communities surrounding the port remains as strong as ever. The community stewardship fostered under Gary's leadership is evident in Maher's commitment to sustainability principles. Maher has dramatically upgraded its container handling equipment to reduce emissions by 62%, and uses 750,000 fewer gallons of diesel fuel annually. With respect to emissions, Maher mapped a plan to be Net Zero by 2040, a full decade ahead of the Paris Agreement.

Gary is a board member of the Metropolitan Marine Maintenance Contractors' Association and Long Beach Container Terminal, and he is a former Director of the Maritime Association of the Port of New York – New Jersey. The Port Authority of New York & New Jersey selected him to be an inaugural member of the Port Authority's Council on Port Performance. In 2011, Gary received the Maritime, Industry, and Government Good Scout Award from the Boy Scouts of America, Patriots Path Council, and in 2020, the Association of Bi-State Motor Carriers presented Gary with its first Jeffrey A. Bader Memorial Award. In February, business journal NJBIZ named Gary to its 2022 Power 100 list.

"Maher Terminals operates the largest privately held marine terminal in North America, loading and unloading 2 million containers annually..."

Gary and his wife Lisa are lifelong New Jersey residents. They enjoy spending time with their three adult sons, Gary, Michael, and Andrew, their lovely wives, and especially their grandchildren.

MICHAEL J. DIVIRGILIO & ASSOCIATES

Michael J. DiVirgilio

Principal
Michael J. DiVirgilio
& Associates

Michael (Mike) DiVirgilio is the Principal of Michael J. DiVirgilio & Associates, a maritime consulting firm he founded following retirement from the NYK Line group, where he worked for 42 years. In 2020, he was elected President of the Maritime Association of the Port of New York/New Jersey after serving as a board member over a period of years.

As an industry consultant, he advises an FMC-filed discussion agreement composed of the six container terminal operators in Port of New York/New Jersey as well as oversees the project activities for its nonprofit corporation, Sustainable Terminal Services, Inc. (STS). In this capacity, he was instrumental in developing a port wide RFID-truck identification system and a first in the nation port wide information portal providing cargo visibility and a reservation function to pick up and drop off containers.

A proven shipping line executive approaching 50 years of experience, Mike began his career at Moore McCormack Lines. He went on to NYK Lines, where he became Senior Vice President of North America sales, and later Senior Vice President of liner management, responsible for route management, alliance relationships, commercial activities including contracting and compliance. While at NYK, he was the company's senior representative at all conference and agreement meetings. Mike was also instrumental in leading the company in its strategic response to the Ocean Shipping Reform act of 1998 and was a member of NYK's North American Board of Directors. From 2007 until his retirement, he was Senior Vice President, Business Development for NYK's terminal operating subsidiary, Ceres Terminals Inc., which gave Mike a complete perspective on cargo transportation operations.

A passionate advocate for the industry, Mike has devoted significant time and expertise to industry non-profit organizations, including the Containerization & Intermodal Institute (CII), the Foreign Commerce Club as well as the Maritime Association, where, as the most recent president, Mike was involved in expanding the constituency of and promoting the organization as the primary advocate for maritime activities in the New York harbor.

"Mike has devoted significant time and expertise to industry non-profit organizations..."

"I am fortunate to have a career in this industry at a time of significant growth," says Mike. "It afforded me tremendous opportunities for advancement, international travel and developing lifelong relationships. I see it as is our responsibility to afford these opportunities to the next generation interested in pursuing a career in this industry, which impacts the lives of people throughout the world."

Mike and wife Jackie live in Middletown, NJ. They have two sons and four grandsons.

Roger Guenther

Executive Director Port Houston

Roger Guenther is the Executive Director of Port Houston, which includes the region's largest breakbulk facility and two of the most efficient and fastest-growing container terminals in the nation. Port Houston is also the local sponsor of the Houston Ship Channel, currently ranked number one for waterborne tonnage. Guenther oversees all operations at Port Houston's public facilities, handling a diverse range of imports and exports including container, general cargo, breakbulk and bulk commodities. Additionally, Guenther is responsible for advocating for ongoing improvements and maintenance of the Houston Ship Channel (HSC) in partnership with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Recently, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers awarded Port Houston $142,515,000 as part of the Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act, which will be utilized to complete a portion of the Houston Ship Channel Expansion –Project 11. Port Houston and the more than 200 private terminals along the HSC together support 3.2 million jobs and $802 billion in annual economic value nationwide. Guenther was named Executive Director of Port Houston in January 2014. Before being named Executive Director, he served as Deputy Executive Director of Operations and was responsible for all container and breakbulk cargo operations, management and construction of capital development projects, facility and asset maintenance and real estate interests. Guenther's 34 years of hands-on experience allows him to manage Port Houston with a unique skillset and perspective, and a leadership track record that speaks for itself. Guenther currently serves on numerous boards and committees. In 2021, Guenther was appointed by Governor Gregg Abbott to the board of the Gulf Coast Protection

District. He also serves on the Texas Department of Transportation's Texas Freight Advisory Committee, the Port Authority Advisory Committee, the Board of Visitors of Texas A&M University at Galveston, Texas A&M Transportation Institute (TTI) Advisory Council, the Port Terminal Railroad Association, the Greater Houston Port Bureau and the Board of Directors of the National Association of Waterfront Employees. Guenther's awards and honors include the 2018 Most Admired CEO-Houston Business Journal, 2018 Humanitarian Award (Philanthropic Male)-Latino Learning Center and 2017 Bronze Award Recipient-Houston International Seafarers. Guenther earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering from Texas A&M University in College Station, TX

"Guenther oversees all operations at Port Houston's public facilities, handling a diverse range of imports and exports including container, general cargo, breakbulk and bulk commodities."

and earned his MBA in International Trade and Finance from the University of St. Thomas. Guenther lives in Galveston, TX with his wife Fabiana and is the proud father of two children, Tyler and Emily.

Anthony V. Marino

(posthumous)

Executive Vice President
The Marino Group

Anthony V. Marino, Executive Vice President of The Marino Group, is the first posthumous award recipient. When Anthony passed away in August 2021 at 59 following a courageous battle with a long illness the industry lost its “Gentle Giant.”

Beloved and respected by all, Anthony joined his brother Vincent at The Marino Group upon graduation from New York University. While Vincent runs the operation from the group’s Charleston, SC, headquarters, Anthony remained in New York City and handled the all-important customer services responsibilities. They would be seen together introducing new services to clients and would-be business partners or at industry events The Marino Group supported enthusiastically.

“He made me a better person,” says Vincent of his brother. “His instincts were right on and his contributions to the maritime industry were significant.” Anthony was fastidious, whether balancing the needs of competing clients or selecting the wine for a customer dinner. He was tenacious pursuing an overdue invoice or becoming a high school wrestler and in one year receiving a New York State championship. Anthony was a loving husband, father, son, brother, uncle and friend.

“Nothing in this world was more important to Anthony than family; period! He would do anything to protect them. At my wedding, a friend questioned if he was my bodyguard as he never let me out of his sight! God, I so miss his smile, his laugh and hearing him say “No, but wait...!” I am forever blessed to be a part of his family.”

— Anthony Chiarello

“No man stands as tall as when he bends down to help a child in need. None stood taller than Anthony. His generosity and love for the special children of the Hole in Wall Gang Camp was unmatched. One year at the ILA-USMX golf outing, he heard the featured camper, a 10-year-old who overcame leukemia, was a die-hard Yankee fan hoping to win tickets that were being raffled. Anthony found the camper and his family and gave them four prime Yankee-Red Sox tickets. Anthony’s mission on earth and his memory are blessings to all.”

— James A. McNamara, Chief of Staff, ILA

“His instincts were right on and his contributions to the maritime industry were significant.”

“I consider myself blessed and fortunate to have called Anthony my friend. Big Anthony lit up the room when he walked through the door. He was instantly surrounded by people who were drawn to him because of his generosity and kindness of spirit. I believe the true measure of a man is the impact made on the lives of others. By that measure Anthony was indeed a giant.”

Royal Caribbean Group

Vincent J. Marino

President and
Chief Executive Officer
The Marino Group

Vincent J. Marino is President and CEO of The Marino Group, founded by his parents more than 50 years ago. Mr. Marino leads a network of container maintenance and repair, refurbishment, over the road repair, equipment modification/sales and drayage facilities serving the East Coast, Gulf and Midwest markets.

He is responsible for all operational aspects, including labor relations, customer relations, facilities planning and future expansions. His career spans 48 years in the shipping industry. A native of Brooklyn, New York, Mr. Marino graduated New York University with a B.S. in Business Administration and did graduate courses at Pace University. The Marino Group is headquartered in Charleston, SC, and the scope of the company's work since its founding has covered the East and Gulf Coasts, with a robust operation in Port Newark, NJ.

One secret of their success is the excellent relationship they maintain with their work force. "We are family," says Mr. Marino. He notes that "we have dinner at each other's homes, we care about each other's family...and we are there for them. In return, we have an effective quality of work and labor peace. As a result, our customers know they can count on us."

There was no question that he would join the family business. As a youngster and yet the eldest son, Vincent Marino already understood the waterfront environment as well as the entrepreneurial spirit of his parents, who foresaw the needs of the growing business of containerized shipping industry more than 50 years ago. With his younger brother and best friend, the late Anthony V. Marino, they would continue to grow The Marino Group with services that have made them invaluable to the industry, the geographical areas they serve and the hundreds of people whose jobs or career paths they have helped secure.

While a devoted South Carolinian now, Mr. Marino likes reminiscing about growing up in Brooklyn, the adjoining backyards, the neighbors he loves still, the cousins nearby with which he always made some trouble and the dynamic New York-New Jersey harbor. "It was and is the best of both worlds," he says.

"One secret of the success of The Marino Group is the excellent relationship they maintain with their work force."

Mr. Marino is the father of four and is married to his wife Pam. He is past Chairman of The Maritime Association of South Carolina and served on the Board of Directors of the Charleston Metro Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Marino currently serves on IANA's Joint Operations and Maintenance/ Repair Committee.

John A. Witte, Jr.

*President and
Chief Executive Officer
Donjon Marine Co., Inc.*

John Arnold Witte is President and CEO of DONJON Marine, Co., Inc. officially taking over for his father in January 2021. After spending his youth following his father as he built Donjon Marine from a two-man operation. John has worked full time for Donjon since 1982, starting in Donjon Marine's Salvage Activities as a Diver and Salvage Technician. John has also served the needs of the Marine Community as an Assistant Salvage Master, Salvage Master and Project Manager. One highlight of John's Salvage career was when he acted as Project Manager for the Federal Salvage Response to Hurricanes Katrina and Rita in the Gulf of Mexico.

Over his 40-plus years of service to Donjon Marine, John has participated in and ultimately directed Donjon's activities in virtually all of Donjon's present Marine and related activities. Beginning with its foundation in the New York area as a pioneer in marine salvage services, Donjon has grown to become a leader in both conventional and environmental dredging. Areas of expertise also include recycling, land and marine demolition, pollution control and remediation, heavy lift transport, marine transportation and landfill remediation/site management.

Today, John has day-to-day operational and corporate oversight of all of Donjon's Marine's various businesses and Operations. John is a past President of the International Salvage Union (ISU), a past President of the American Salvage Association (ASA) and was recently elected for a second Term as Vice President of the ISU.

In addition, Mr Witte is also Director and provides oversight and guidance to one of Donjon's more recent endeavors, Donjon Shipbuilding & Repair, LLC, the latest addition to its family of services, Donjon controls the largest shipyard of its kind on the Great Lakes, utilizing years of experience and knowledge to meet the needs of an ever-growing industry to provide shipbuilding, dry-docking, ship repair and related services. In addition to working with his father, two sisters, four brothers, and various uncles, cousins and those that felt as if they are part of the family, over the many years at Donjon, Mr. Witte has been married to his wife, Beth Ann. They have two children, Casey and John III. The business at times, requires many hours at work during a normal work week as well as months away from home.

"Today, John has day-to-day operational and corporate oversight of all of Donjon's Marine's various businesses and operations."

He credits the love and support of his family, with providing the time, willingness and drive to do what is required to support the efforts of Donjon Marine.

MARITIME ASSOCIATION OF THE PORT OF NEW YORK/NEW JERSEY

OUR MISSION

It is the mission of the Maritime Association of the Port of NY/NJ to serve the commercial maritime industry in the NY/NJ region by monitoring and disseminating data regarding vessel activity to its members and the public, to act as an advocate for the commercial maritime interests of the Port at the municipal, state, and federal level, and to promote the safety of navigation, the security of maritime assets, the sustainability of the marine environment, and the competitiveness of port services.

Since 1873, Maritime Association of the Port of New York has been the primary voice for the commercial maritime industry for our great Port.

We were initially organized as a Marine Exchange to monitor vessel arrival/departure/berthing information and to share vital information about maritime operations in the port.

While we still perform the functions of a Marine Exchange, our mission has expanded so that we are now the primary advocate for the commercial maritime industry in our port, and also perform as a trade association representing our over 500 paid members to ensure the safety of navigation, the security of marine assets, the sustainability of the marine environment, and the competitiveness of our marine services.
